Sacramento Technology Group Named to CRN's Inaugural Next-Gen 250 List Ranking Highlights the Up and Coming VARS in North America

Folsom, California, September 9, 2011 – Sacramento Technology Group, "Technology Delivered to Your Office or The Cloud with CARE™ so You Can Focus on Your Business", today announced Everything Channel has named the company to the first ever 2011 CRN Next-Gen 250 list. The CRN Next-Gen 250 is an annual listing of innovative and nimble business and technology integrators, solution providers, and resellers in North America offering solutions and services in cloud computing, mobility, unified communications, virtualization and other emerging technologies.

The CRN Next-Generation 250 list is comprised of the most exciting new solution provider organizations (founded 2000-2011) bringing new and emerging implementation ideas and business models to the market. Sacramento Technology Group's STG-CARE platform has been helping businesses balance their existing technology with new cloud investments since 2005. By focusing their clients on the value of the application and network rather than the care and feeding of expensive servers and software purchases, Sacramento Technology Group has emerged as a mover and shaker in the Northern California solution provider market. To view a sample of the listing visit www.crn.com.

"We are proud to be recognized as a Next-Gen 250 integrator of business technology." Says George Usi, President of Sacramento Technology Group, " Our STG-CARE platform coupled with our leading partnerships around security, cloud, and networking technologies make it possible for our Clients to securely scale their business technology seasonally by moving more of their servers out of the data center cage and into the cloud." Usi continues, "The ability to only use what computing resources you need when you need them will continue to save our clients money, reduce their operational overhead, and allow them to focus their efforts on improving their network security and capacity." – George Usi, President, Sacramento Technology Group, LLC.

"In today's competitive environment solution providers have to do more than just talk about innovation. The ability to quickly implement new processes, models and technologies is what drives margins and the bottom line," said Kelley Damore, VP, Editorial Director, Everything Channel. "The CRN Next-gen 250 highlights the most interesting new solution providers who are demonstrating such innovation and uncovers the new techniques and technologies that are driving their success."
